EDITOR'S CORNER

For a while now, we have been working on an issue of ChildArt on music and music education. Finally, it is here! We hope it informs you about the importance of music and inspires you to begin playing music.

We are grateful to the famous musicians who took the time to tell us their stories and discuss the role of music in their lives. We are also grateful to the eminent educators and scientists who contributed to this issue. We are sorry we could not feature everyone we interviewed nor include every wonderful submission.

We hope that after reading this issue, you will play music with greater passion and listen to music more intently and with greater joy.

Happy reading!
